Pet Care

Dog owners can now take their pets and cars for a quick shampoo, rinse and blow-dry at a garage in Kent. Britain's first dog-wash, at Wrotham Heath filling station, allows visitors to wash their car and pup in one journey. The dog cleaner is situated next to the huge drive-through brushes and consists of a stainless steel tank in which you can stand a dog while you shampoo it. A jet shower removes the soap and then a high-powered blower is on hand to dry the animal off.

I grew up with lions in my living room

Maisie McNeice tells about her life in Africa:

- 1 “ When I was seven, our family moved from Britain to Botswana, Africa. My mother wanted us – my sister Emily (then 18) and my three brothers, Tom, Angus and Sean (then 11, 10 and 8) and me – to experience a different way of life. But I don't think I quite realised how different it would be!
- 2 After we arrived in Botswana, we went to live at a lion research station in the bush. For five years now we've lived in tents. I've got my own tent with a bed, which I have to check for scorpions before I get in! There are no fences and it's dangerous to walk around when it is dark, so we drive – even from the living-room tent to my bedroom tent! Waking up in the middle of the night and having to go to the toilet is the worst. I always worry a lion might be around, so I go quickly in the sand outside my tent.
- 3 Once I stepped on a scorpion. Burning pins and needles spread up my body and my throat swelled, it was terrifying! In our tents we often find spiders, bigger than the size of a CD. I'm not scared of them, but I am scared of snakes. Tom once woke up and found a dangerous cobra in his tent but, thankfully, it glided away.
- 4 When I was nine, I started working with the lions. At the moment I have to test their hormones by taking poo samples. It stinks, but I don't mind! I also collect urine samples by scooping up wet sand after the lions pee, which we send to America for testing. We don't get near them, but we recognise them by their colour, patterns and markings.
- 5 I love the lions – they are so sweet. We don't interfere with their lives, which is hard if they are injured, but it's interesting to see how they manage to survive. Once a lion called Mercier was attacked by other lions. Her neck was ripped open. It was awful to see her like that, but five months later the wound had healed completely.
- 6 People always ask me if I miss my friends and family in England. I do, but I keep in touch with them by letter. When I visit England I do notice I'm not as much into fashion and make-up as my girlfriends. Mum teaches us at home and we finish by 11am because the heat makes it hard to concentrate. But take it from me – nothing beats walking around barefoot and being outside in the sunshine. I wouldn't exchange my life in Africa for anything in the world.

Superwoman saves boy

1 Lisa Hodgkinson, 29, from Cheshire, saved the life of a seven-year-old boy after she found the strength to free him from under a one-ton car. The boy, Luke Archer, from Manchester, was walking near his home, when he suddenly ran in front of a BMW 318. The boy got under the front wheels of the car, which shocked the driver so much that he was unable to take his foot off the brake.

2 Lisa had left work to buy a sandwich when she saw the accident. She immediately rushed over to help the badly injured school boy. She said: "The car was on top of Luke and I somehow managed to push it off him. I still don't know how I did it, I think nature just took over. He had stopped breathing, so I gave him the mouth-to-mouth. I then supported his head until the ambulance arrived."

3 Luke was taken to the Royal Manchester Children's hospital, where he underwent a five-hour operation. He had broken both arms and a leg, and had lots of cuts and bruises all over his body. He could leave hospital after a couple of

I get paid to be Britney!

WHEN LYNSEY HEDLEY, 18, WAS TOLD SHE LOOKED LIKE BRITNEY SPEARS, SHE MADE THE MOST OF IT!

1 “ Ever since Britney's first single came out, people have said I look like her. Once, on a flight to London, the air hostesses whispered about me so much, I got upset. They came and apologised to me afterwards, explaining they were sure I was her. I wouldn't have minded, but I'm from Newcastle and I was travelling economy class!¹⁾

2 I joined a lookalike agency, 'Spitting Images', after my mum sent in some photos of me. Then I got a call to do a TV show called 'Stars and their doubles'. I was very nervous being on TV for the first time. All the other lookalikes were so much into their characters that I felt a bit out of place because I was acting like me, not Britney. There's also one big difference between Britney and me – I can't sing at all!

3 After that, I did a photoshoot for a national newspaper, which I loved. Strangers in the street shouted 'Britney!' at me too. At first I took it as a compliment, but then people started calling me a wannabe. That's totally unfair – I've always looked like this! I've always bleached my hair, and had hair extensions. I don't do it to look like Britney – I just like having long hair. I don't try hard to dress like Britney, but I like wearing a lot of denim like she does.

4 People can make thousands of pounds from being a lookalike. I've been told I could get £100 an hour, but I don't get that much! Everyone always asks if I've worked with a Justin Timberlake lookalike, but I haven't. I guess I won't now because Britney and he have split up. And although it's fun to be someone else for a while, it's good to get back to being me. ”

- A bleven vooral zichzelf.
- B deden de sterren op wie zij leken precies na.
- C konden helemaal niet zingen.

- 1p ● 19 'but then people started calling me a wannabe' (alinea 3)
Waarom vond Lynsey het niet eerlijk dat mensen haar uitscholden voor na-aper?
A Ze heeft veel moeite gedaan om op Britney te lijken.
B Ze lijkt in het dagelijks leven helemaal niet op Britney.
C Ze ziet er al heel lang uit zoals Britney er nu uit ziet.
- 1p ● 20 Waarom is de kans klein dat Lynsey met een dubbelganger van Justin Timberlake zal gaan samenwerken? (alinea 4)
A Britney heeft geen relatie meer met Justin Timberlake.
B Er is niemand die precies op Justin Timberlake lijkt.
C Lynsey gaat binnenkort stoppen met haar werk als dubbelganger.

TEKST 9

- 1p ● 21 Martin Rossiter heeft een boomhut in zijn tuin
A om daar zijn kleinkinderen in te laten spelen.
B om samen met zijn kleinkinderen een avonturenfilm te maken.
C om zijn kleinkinderen te laten zien hoe goed hij kan timmeren.

TOP TREEHOUSE

Generous granddad Martin Rossiter, from Macclesfield, had a treehouse built for his grandchildren – costing £35,000! The top-of-the-range two-storey treehouse has a series of rope walkways between some oak and pine trees in Martin's garden and took builders five days to make. He now plans to add running water and electricity to make it a perfect playhouse. "It looks like something out of a film set," says Martin. "The grandchildren love it." Martin has 12 grandchildren aged from 2 to 12 – but the rest of his family believe he secretly made the house for himself! "Perhaps it has something to do with the boy scout in me," he laughs.

“Getting my ear pierced left me scarred for life”

KATRINA HEALY, 17, FROM BARNSELEY, SUED THE COMPANY THAT MESSED UP HER EAR-PIERCING. BUT NOT BEFORE SHE'D HAD THREE OPERATIONS AND LOST HALF HER EAR.

1 “When I was 12, I already had my ears pierced normally. But when I was 15 I thought a ring at the top of my left ear would be nice too. I went to a local jeweller's. I didn't get Mum's permission because I knew she wouldn't like me to have any more. As I was under 16, I had to get my mate, Wayne, who was 18, to give permission for me.

2 For £2.20 the man at the jeweller's put a piercing gun to my ear and pierced it with a gold stud. It hurt, but no more than other piercings. It seemed to be healing OK at first. I cleaned it with salt water and wore my hair up to show everyone my new piercing.

3 But two weeks later, something was wrong. I woke up and my ear was so swollen that the earring had disappeared into the swelling. It was very painful! I went to hospital where they pulled the earring out. It hurt so much, that I fainted and they gave me morphine for the pain. I had a big abscess²⁾ in my ear.

4 The next day I had an operation to remove the abscess and I had to wear a bandage round my head for days, which was embarrassing. I got mean comments from people, but luckily my friends understood.

Then I had two more operations to remove a second abscess and they cut dead bits off my ear. I hate hospitals and my ear looks deformed now. It seemed the jeweller should never have used a gun at the top of my ear. He should have used a needle to do so.

5 I went through so much, Mum and I decided to sue the jeweller's. Two years after the piercing I gave evidence in court. I had to show the judge my ear. Half of it has gone, and the rest is folded in. I'm used to the way it looks, but still feel insecure and never wear my hair up in case anyone makes comments about it.

6 It was nerve-wrecking, sitting in court with my mum, I was overjoyed when we won! The judge awarded us £14,000! The money is in a bank account and I cannot touch it till I'm 18. I have decided I won't have plastic surgery later. It's a rather dangerous operation. I want to study health care so the money will be useful for that.

7 I'm angry that someone was able to do this to my ear. If you're thinking of getting a piercing, I'd say be very careful about who does it!”

Who's Fat?

1 Researchers from the Wildlife Conservation Society in Nevada have discovered that wild bears living near towns and cities are getting too fat from eating the left-overs of fast food meals. In the US many people and even pets are getting overweight because of high-calorie and high-fat diets. But now black bears living near cities are taking over the bad eating habits of their human neighbours!

2 By using microchips with 59 bears, the researchers found that the animals could be divided into two separate groups. One group 'the country bears' spent nearly all their time in the wild. The second group 'the city bears' practically lived in cities and ate rubbish and left-over food of local people.

3 In winter 'country bears' slept in their caves in the forest, away from the cold and lack of food outside. But the 'city bears' took advantage of the year-round supply of left-overs and kept on eating. The end result was that the 'city-bears' were fatter than the average bear. A quarter weighed over 180 kilos, compared to an average of 100 to 135 kilos. Some even weighed as much as 270 kilos!

- 2 Duizenden mensen doen mee aan deze race.

- 4 Richard Jones heeft voor de zesde keer de race gewonnen.

GLORIOUS MUD

Racing through slimy black mud, mixed with ice-cold water is not every athlete's dream, but each year the annual Maldon Mud Race attracts many enthusiasts. The New Year charity event saw 150 people trying to cross the river Blackwater, in Essex, at low tide. They have to wade or swim through waist-high water and then 200 metres of deep mud before making their way back across the river. A crowd of thousands watched Richard Jones, 29, cross the finishing line first in a time of six minutes.

1p ○ 34 → Waardoor heeft de auto van Frank Knocks geen last van roestvorming?

Mahogany motor

Despite the rainy summer, there's one car which will never go rusty – because its outer shell is made entirely of wood! The amazing vehicle took carpenter Frank Knocks over two years to create. He used a technique known to boat builders as “cold moulding” to create the shell. Thin strips of mahogany were stuck together and laid over a mould to set in the correct shape.

- 1p ● 35 Waarom was de leiding van de kerk woedend?

 - B Iemand was er vandoor met de opbrengst van de rommelmarkt.
 - C Waardevolle spullen waren per ongeluk verkocht.
 - D Ze waren opgelicht door een opkoper van antieke spullen.

JUMBLE TROUBLE

Church officials were furious after stupid jumble sale helpers sold £10.000 worth of gold and silver church items for less than £10.

Bargain hunters were lucky when they found expensive items on sale for next to nothing at a church hall in Newquay. Father Augustine Parkatt said the mix up happened because the church items were stored in the hall where the sale was held.
