Saddle up to promote road safety

RIDERS from all over Calderdale are expected to take part in a road safety awareness ride on October 23.

It will start at Mytholmroyd Community Centre at 10.45 am and take a route along Burnley Road to Hebden Bridge.

One of the organisers Mrs Margaret Barker, chairman of Calder Valley Horse Watch, is still recovering from back injuries she received when a speeding car frightened her horse.

“I hope there will be a good response to the ride. We want to make motorists aware of the problems they can cause for riders in a rural area like Calderdale,” she said.

- 1p ● 2 Je bent op vakantie in Londen met drie vrienden. Jullie willen op woensdagavond naar de musical 'Buddy' gaan. Omdat jullie niet veel geld meer hebben, besluiten jullie de goedkoopste kaartjes te nemen.

Wat kost op woensdag een kaartje per persoon?

- A £ 6.75
- B £ 10.25
- C £ 13.50
- D £ 29.50

Helpline fights school bullying

VIVIENNE MORGAN

A NATIONAL parenting charity is expanding its helpline service to meet an expected surge in bullying-related calls. Parentline Plus, which receives more than 80,000 calls a year, has trained additional volunteers to meet an increasing demand for advice as children returned to school after the holidays.

“Throughout September and October there is always a sustained rise in bullying-related calls,” said a spokesman for the charity.

“Parents will be dealing with back-to-school problems. Children who have been bullied before may be going back to the situation and some children will be changing from primary to secondary school.”

Surprisingly, more than half the parents who contacted the helpline, which is supported by the Department for Education and Employment, were concerned that their child was bullying others.

Schools Minister Estelle Morris said: “Children need a safe and secure environment in which to learn. Bullying can damage children and parents are often unsure how to help their children to deal with it.”

The Parentline Plus free helpline can be called on 0808 800 2222. Further information is available at www.parentlineplus.org.uk

A VOYAGE OF DISCOVERY

UK - St Helena - Cape Town

Did you know: Horatio Nelson lost his right arm at the Battle of Tenerife in 1797?

The tropical island of Ascension was claimed by Britain as a direct result of the Battle of Waterloo and that the Union flag has flown there ever since?

The British and Dutch fought two battles in the 17th Century for the possession of St Helena - the island where Napoleon Bonaparte was exiled from 1815 until his death in 1821?

Thousands of Boer prisoners-of-war were detained on St Helena following the Battle of Paardeberg in 1900, the first major British victory in the Anglo-Boer War of 1899-1902? The British took possession of the Cape Colony from the Dutch for the first time in 1795 after the Battle of Muizenberg?

Sail south into an early spring and discover more about these and other unusual events in our history by joining a three-week cruise on the RMS St Helena, sailing on 8th March 2001 from Cardiff to Cape Town via the islands of Tenerife, Ascension and St Helena.

On board will be our experienced history lecturer and guide, Cambridge graduate Warham Searle, who will prepare you for your visits ashore with slide-illuminated talks and suggested excursions.

MILLVINA DEAN

Millvina Dean is one of the survivors of the Titanic disaster. The Titanic was a large cruiseship which sank on its first journey in 1912, after hitting an iceberg.

1 I can't bear ice in my drinks - it always makes me think of the iceberg, you see. There are only five Titanic survivors left. I'm the youngest, as I was only nine 5 weeks old when it sank in 1912, - so, obviously, I can't remember anything about it. But my poor father drowned that day and whenever I imagine an iceberg, I think of him.

2 10 Up to a few years ago I was living quietly in retirement, but now much of my time is spent travelling all over the world to speak at conventions as a guest of the various Titanic societies. Until the wreck was discovered 15 there wasn't nearly so much interest in the disaster. My mother, who died in 1975, didn't tell me what we had been through until I was eight.

3 My whole family - my father Bertram, my 20 mother Georgetta and my 18-month-old brother, Bertram Vere - was on that maiden voyage of the Titanic. We were going to start a wonderful new life in America, where my father had planned to open a tobacconist's 25 shop. I'm convinced he was a hero and that his quick response saved us.

4 That night we were woken by a loud crash and father immediately told my mother to go to the lifeboats with the children. He kissed her goodbye and said he would see her later 30 - but she never saw him again. We were picked up by the Carpathia, but my dear father went down with the Titanic. My mother, brother and I came back to 35 Southampton. I worked as a cartographer, a secretary and even as an assistant in a tobacconist's - I felt my father would have approved.

5 But I had hardly given any thought to the 40 Titanic when, in 1988, I was invited to attend a convention in Boston, and since then I haven't stopped. I've been to so many places I would never otherwise have gone to,
 and wherever I go people make a terrific fuss 45 of me. I have been on several wonderful cruises and have given a talk on the Queen Elizabeth II. I have been given a civic reception in Cobh, Ireland, where the Titanic docked before setting off to America. I have 50 even had a road named after me. And there are always dozens of letters from all over the world. People just address them to Millvina Dean, Titanic survivor, Southampton - but nevertheless they all arrive.

6 55 I'm staying at home this Christmas, but I'd rather not watch the Titanic film. It would be too upsetting. When panic sets in at the end I would be wondering about my father. But I have been invited to meet Kate Winslet and 60 the director, James Cameron, and I have seen the Leonardo DiCaprio look-alike at conventions. He was very handsome!

- 1p ● 5 What becomes clear about Millvina Dean from paragraph 1?
A She has a clear memory of what happened to her in 1912.
B She is still frightened of travelling by ship.
C She still has a lot of happy memories of her father.
D She was just a baby when the disaster took place.
- 1p ● 6 A few years ago people became more interested in the Titanic, according to paragraph 2. What caused that interest?
A A lot of people saw the movie about the Titanic.
B Millvina started telling people about what had happened to her.
C People wanted to know more about disasters.
D The remains of the ship were found on the bottom of the ocean.
- 1p ○ 7 'I'm convinced he was a hero' (line 25) → Waarom vindt Millvina haar vader een held, volgens alinea's 3 en 4?
- 1p ● 8 'I felt my father would have approved.' (lines 37-38)
Why does Millvina feel this according to paragraphs 3 and 4?
Because her father
A had wanted to become a tobacconist in America.
B would have been glad that she returned to Southampton.
C would have wanted her to run her own business.
- 1p ● 9 Which of the following statements is true about Millvina Dean, according to paragraph 5?
A She always knew she was special because of the Titanic.
B She only realised that she was special much later in her life.
C She thinks all the attention given to her is exaggerated.
D She wishes she had found out earlier that she was a survivor of the Titanic.
- 1p ○ 10 → Waarom wil Millvina de film de Titanic liever niet zien, volgens alinea 6?
- 1p ○ 11 In alinea 5 wordt iets genoemd waardoor mensen ook in de toekomst aan Millvina Dean zullen blijven denken.
→ Schrijf de zin over waarin dat staat.

OVER FILLING WHEELIE BINS CAN BE DANGEROUS...

Health & Safety Risks

When a wheelie bin is over filled it is not possible to fully or securely close the lid. It is very easy for the wind to 'catch' the lid and flip it back – sometimes with force. This has caused, and may continue to cause, injury to passers-by and refuse collectors.

It can cause other problems too...

Wheelie bins are designed to contain rubbish and waste. If you over fill your wheelie bin your rubbish and waste is not contained. Pigeons, seagulls, cats, dogs and other wildlife have easy access to rubbish and waste that is not contained. So does the wind. As a result rubbish and waste can easily become spread across streets and gardens.

Please do not over fill your wheelie bin.

WILL SMITH

1 Will Smith, once the crown prince of the music charts has become the new king of 5 Hollywood. He became known for his cool rap duo DJ Jazzy Jeff and The Fresh Prince. Then came the wild TV programme The Fresh Prince
 10 of Bel Air, about a young rapper from Philadelphia who moves in with rich relatives in Los Angeles. It was created for Smith and based loosely on his music-industry story.

Smith is a popular man both on and off the film screen and his humour gives you a real kick at any time of day.

2 20 “I wasn’t always cool though. I had the nickname ‘Fresh Prince’ in high school. I always acted like royalty – because I was always the uncoolest kid. I was the guy that got picked on.” Will, the son of a refrigeration electrician from 25 Philadelphia, had middle class parents who kept moving their family around the USA specifically to give their kids a sense of national diversity.

3 He started rapping at parties back in the mid-eighties. He gave his mother a nasty shock by 30 deciding against going to college and forming a rap duo. Then he side-stepped into acting. “I always knew I could act. I just felt I could. But you can only show you really can if you’re in a decent role. I think it’s hard, especially for black 35 actors, to find really good roles.”

4 Smith now has his own ice-manufacturing company and a charitable foundation that puts money into local schools. Home is an 40 8,000-square-foot south-western style house in the hills, about 45 minutes outside Los Angeles. He lives there with his wife, actress Jada Pinkett, 45 last seen with Eddy Murphy in The Nutty Professor. They met in 1995 when she auditioned to play his girlfriend in The Fresh Prince of Bel Air, but 50 she was too short for the role.

FACE TO FACE

5 “I love to act, I love my business life, but I also still love to rap,” he says. “I think the music and the acting came 55 together for me in Men in Black, with my recording the MTV video with two tracks, Juzt Cruising and Men in Black for the soundtrack. In my off-screen life I record all the time. I have a studio in my house and when I 60 come back from work I record. I have seven or eight songs already finished for the next album. Great dance-orientated stuff. The music, for me, is the most 18 form of entertainment that I do because I sing about me and what I feel.

6 65 Jada and I wouldn’t co-star. Making movies is really stressful. It would be really hard working together. We try not to work either together or at the same time. She warms my slippers while I’m working and I keep hers nice and toasty while 70 she’s working. That seems fine to me. Maybe in ten years’ time I’ll run for president!”

How BAD are burgers?

They're one of the top junk foods but kids love them! Angela Dowden gives her verdict on 5 of the most popular burgers

1 Sainsbury's Chargrilled Beef Burgers Beef content: 82 per cent.

These burgers contain twice as much salt as some others and have added flavourings, fillers, stabilisers and preservatives. The only positive aspect is that they have a lower fat content than many of the burgers we looked at.

3 Ross Tendergrill Economy Burgers Beef content: None

These burgers are made with pork heart and the dregs of pork and chicken carcasses. They may still be wholesome but with all the flavour enhancers and preservatives, this is food at its most processed and had best be avoided. For cheap 'real' food, go for baked beans or scrambled eggs.

2 Organix Organic Beef Burgers Beef content: 81 per cent.

These get our vote because they're low in salt, have the lowest fat content and no artificial ingredients (they contain just beef, diced onion, seasoning and breadcrumbs). They're also made with organic beef which means animal welfare standards are higher.

4 Birds Eye Original & Best Beef Burgers Beef content: 81 per cent.

These burgers contain flavour enhancer and preservatives but otherwise the ingredients list is wholesome. The fat content isn't extremely high but it's not low either.

5 Birds Eye 100% Beef Burgers Beef content: 98 per cent.

Despite being labelled 100 per cent beef, these burgers contain added flavourings and stabilisers, plus vitamin C and vitamin E to prevent rancidity. They have an average fat percentage.

Hello boys, we can beat you at your own game

These women are professionals who all do jobs traditionally dominated by men. Being a woman doesn't mean they're afraid of hard physical work or tough challenges.

Flight Lieutenant Su Bunning, 29, is a BOMB DISPOSAL OFFICER based at RAF Wittering

1 I've always been fascinated by aircraft and decided to become an RAF engineer when I was quite young. I've now been a serving officer for seven years and find weapons, engineering and bomb disposal particularly stimulating areas to work in. People think my job is dangerous because they're not aware of what makes bombs go bang. I don't think of it like that because I've learned how to deal with them. It's essential to use 100 per cent mental effort. My partner Jon doesn't worry about me because he has confidence in my abilities. In my current role I have 89 men reporting to me. There are no other women on the team. 24, because at technical college I was the only female on the course.

2 I'm kept busy all day and this job is physically very demanding, so I do extra training in my spare time to keep fit. I myself have to be able to do everything that I expect from the men who work for me.

Jacqueline Davis, 40, is the world's top female BODYGUARD

3 Some men are surprised when they find out they're going to work with a woman bodyguard, especially in the Middle East. I was in Egypt once, training policemen in anti-terrorist techniques. During the day they listened to me, but in the evening I went back to being just a female who was ignored and expected to walk behind them. One day an embassy official turned up to see how it was going. As a test, he told one of the policemen to floor me. So I decked this poor bloke and stood on his windpipe until the official yelled: 'Let him go!'

4 I've worked with many celebrities, but I turned down the chance to work for Madonna because I was worried that looking after her would turn into a media scrum. Also, she wasn't paying enough.

Diana Nell, 21, works as a MECHANIC for a national garage chain

5 I started off as a receptionist in a garage and one day I asked my boss if he could teach me a few things so that I'd be able to do the maintenance on my own Toyota. The more I learnt about it, the more interested I became, so I decided to become a mechanic.

6 Occasionally, customers ask me if I know what I'm doing and I just explain that I am fully trained and qualified. That reassures them. At first 27, but now I don't let it upset me any more.

7 The guys at work have looked after me so well. I love them to bits. I'm part of the team and I'm very happy working here. If a nice-looking woman goes by, they might make a comment. Lads will be lads! I don't want the guys to feel they have to tiptoe around me just because I'm a girl. If I'm having a problem with a boyfriend I might even ask their advice from the male perspective.

8 My job has never got in the way of any relationship and it's a good feeling to know I've made my mark in a job that's unusual for a woman.

What's it really like being a model?

Big money, foreign travel and fantastic clothes – modelling sounds so glamorous. But is it the right career for a teenager? Three women, a schoolgirl model, her mother and a full-time model, share their very different experiences...

The schoolgirl model

- 1 Rachel Hillel, 15, is still at school, but works part-time as a model. She lives with her parents and her sister Liana, 17, in Gately, Manchester.
- 2 "I don't think of myself as a model; I think of myself as Rachel Hillel, 4th-year pupil at Kingsway School. Modelling's fun, but at the end of the day I do it for pocket money. It's great getting £35 an hour for a fashion show but, to be honest, I'm more worried about passing my exams than about my next job."
- 3 I wasn't spotted in the street like some models you hear about, it was more to do with my height. I've always been tall – I was 5ft 8in by the time I was 13 – and people kept saying I should give it a go. I laughed at the idea at first. But when I was 14, someone gave my mum a modelling agency number, she called and so I went for an interview and there were 25 girls there, all older than me. I was amazed to be signed up.
- 4 The agency taught me how to parade and to do my make-up. Since then, most of my jobs have been on the catwalk. At first I felt awkward, but I'm more relaxed now. I'm also more used to rejection. Before a casting I think: 'If I get it, great, if I don't, so what?' Modelling's not my life and I'm not sure I want it to be."

What her mum says ...

- 5 Rachel's mum, Lynsey Hillel, 52: "I never expected Rachel to be accepted – I know she's beautiful, but you always think that of your own children, don't you? Once we'd got over the excitement, my husband Ezra and I discussed Rachel's schooling with the agency. They arrange her jobs around school.

- 6 Rachel's 5ft 10in and just over 50 kgs but she's always been thin. She avoids fatty foods, but never diets – I won't let her. Once at a casting I commented on how many of the models smoked. 'It's to keep their weight down,' Rachel explained. I'd hate her to feel that pressure.
- 7 We don't know if Rachel wants a full-time modelling career yet, but we think it would be a waste. We went to the Models One agency in London last year, and she got a glimpse of life at the top – I was glad she wasn't too impressed."

The full-time model

- 8 Claire-Louise SurrIDGE, 20, has been working full-time as a model since she was 16. She lives with her mum and dad in Romford, Essex.
- 9 "I've been modelling since I was in nappies – literally! I won a baby competition and got signed to an agency. I modelled throughout my childhood until I was 12. Then my parents thought I was getting behind with my schoolwork, so I gave up modelling. But when I was 14, an agency scout saw me when I was at the Clothes Show Exhibition and said I should go back to modelling. So once I'd done my exams at 16, I did.
- 10 For two years I had a terrific time, travelling and earning great money. When I was 17, I lived in Japan for three months. But now I'm 20, it's getting harder. I can already see the new wave of girls coming up, and the work seems less secure. It's tough to be rejected – I've been refused jobs from time to time – but you learn to live with it.
- 11 You also find that you're set apart from other people. They think you're a show-off, and boys get a bit nervous, so when I meet new people I just say I'm a student. I've tried going out with male models, but it was so competitive it was hopeless. My boyfriend, Scott, is an audio engineer and we're really happy. He keeps my feet firmly on the ground, and so do my parents."

Police grab granny in bank hold-up prank

A GRANDMOTHER accidentally held up a bank when she handed in a deposit slip on which a joker had scrawled a robbery note.

As she waited for a receipt at the drive-up window of her bank in Albuquerque, New Mexico, several police squad cars screeched up and officers ordered the woman and her daughter out of their car at gunpoint. "We were stunned with all those guns pointed at us," said the 61-year-old woman. "They handcuffed me and my daughter."

She later discovered that the demand note on the back of the deposit slip read: "This is a hold-up. I have a bomb."

FBI agent Doug Beldon said a prankster left the slip in a pile inside the bank to be picked up by an unsuspecting customer.
